ARTICLE I

MEMBERSHIP

Application for Membership and Election

Section 1 — (a) Individual Memberships can be applied for and granted by several means. Individual Memberships can be established by application of individuals who are either Students or Non-Students (Professionals). These applications are per ASM published requirements and associated required annual membership fees.
(b) Individual Professional Memberships can also be established through sponsorship and appointment within one of the ASM special institutional membership classes. Individual Professional Members established through one of the Special Institutional Membership classes will have all rights as those established by application as Individual Professional Members.
(c) All applications shall be processed, after approval by Headquarter personnel, and a list of new members will be forwarded to the appropriate geographically available Chapter or as designated by the applicant, unless the applicant resides where there is no geographically available Chapter and has not specially designated a preferred chapter affiliation.
(d) Examples of Special Institutional Memberships include: Chapter Sustaining Membership, and Corporate Members. Chapter Sustaining Membership is granted to an institution (Corporation, Educational Institution or Government Organization) which is allowed to sponsor and appoint one (1) Individual Professional Member. Corporate Membership is granted to a corporation which desires to bundle employee memberships and corporate access licenses to ASM products and is allowed to sponsor and appoint one (1) or more Professional Members per the terms of the individual Corporate Membership. In cases of Special Institutional Memberships, any Institution or Corporation shall be engaged in or interested in furthering the purpose of ASM who has been elected by a Chapter or by the Board of Trustees (hereinafter called Board). Individual Professional Memberships established through any special institutional membership will remain in effect through the term of the Special Institutional Membership, and such memberships must comply with all the other requirements of Individual Professional Memberships.

Section 2 — (a) Each application for membership in ASM as an Individual Professional Member, or Student Member, shall be in writing, in such form and in such detail as required by the Board and shall be signed by the applicant or sponsoring Institution.

Change in Chapter Affiliation

Section 3 — Any member who changes their geographical location shall be reaffiliated with the nearest Chapter geographically convenient to the new location, unless the applicant resides where there is no geographically available Chapter, and shall be so notified by the Executive Director. This is subject to the provision that either the member or the Chapter or both may request a change in this new affiliation by writing to the Executive Director. Members may belong to multiple Chapters for an additional fee as established by the Board.
Voluntary Cessation of Membership

Section 4 — (a) Any member may indicate an intention to relinquish their membership by filing a written resignation with the Executive Committee of the Chapter with which he/she is affiliated, or with the Board. Such resignation shall be transmitted immediately to the Executive Director. In case of resignation, no fees covering the remainder of the year in which the resignation is processed shall be remitted to the resignee.
(b) Any member whose fees to ASM remain unpaid for a period of one (1) calendar month after the final bill for the same has been mailed to the Individual Professional, or Student Member, directed to the mailing address shown on the official records of ASM for the member in question, shall automatically cease to be a member.
(c) Any member who resigns or is dropped for nonpayment of fees shall have the privilege of resuming membership without penalty or loss of continuity by making their fee payment current at any time within six (6) calendar months after the resignation or the final bill as described above.

Specially Designated Individual Professional Members

Section 5 — ASM shall have six (6) classes of specially designated individual members:
(a) Honorary Member
(b) Distinguished Life Member
(c) Fellow Member
(d) Life Member
(e) Retired Member
(f) Emerging Professional Member

Qualification for Special Membership

Section 6 — (a) An Honorary Member shall be a person elected by the Board who is prominent in their field and has furthered the purpose of ASM by an evidenced appreciation of the importance of materials science, or materials engineering. Honorary Members shall enjoy the rights and privileges of ASM International Individual Professional Membership.
(b) A Distinguished Life Member (formerly called Honorary Life Member) shall be a person elected by the Board because of distinguished service to or cooperation with ASM. Distinguished Life Members shall have the rights and privileges of an Individual Professional member of ASM.
(c) A Fellow shall be an Individual Member elected by the Board to be a Fellow because of their outstanding accomplishment in some field of metallurgy, materials science or engineering, such as education, research, design, development, production or management. Evidence of such accomplishment may be in the form of papers, books, inventions, patents or other advances or, alternatively, may be in the form of technical or professional contributions through supervision of research groups, educational groups, industrial organizations or governmental agencies. Membership as an Individual Professional Member for at least five years shall be a prerequisite to membership as a Fellow. Classification as a Fellow shall not interfere with the rights or privileges of such person as an Individual Professional Member, and shall not relieve said Member of their obligation to pay fees as an Individual Professional Member. Upon ceasing to be an Individual Professional Member he/she shall cease to be a Fellow.
(d) A Life Member shall be any Individual Professional Member who is in good standing, who has reached the age of 65 years and whose years of membership combined with their age equal 100 or more. Individual Professional Members established through Special Institutional Memberships are eligible for Special Membership distinction. Classification as any of the Special Memberships shall not interfere with the rights or privileges of any person as an Individual Professional Member.
(e) A Retired Professional Member status must be requested by an ASM Individual Member who has been an ASM Member continuously for ten (10) years, who has attained the age of sixty (60) and retired from regular work. The Retired Professional Member status affords all rights and privileges as regular Individual Professional Membership.
(f) Emerging Professional membership categories may be established by the Board as necessary to facilitate the emerging professional membership program and growth of the overall future Individual Professional Membership of ASM. Emerging Professional Members have the same rights as Individual Professional Members.

Election of Honorary Members, Distinguished Life Members, and Fellows

Section 7 — Honorary Members, Distinguished Life Members and Fellows shall be elected by unanimous affirmative vote of all members of the Board present at a meeting of the Board duly called and held, after having been nominated in a manner determined by the Board.

From time to time the Board shall examine the amount charged for membership fees and may adjust them to account for costs of service to members. (b) Any former member whose membership has terminated because of resignation or because of nonpayment of fees and whose six-month period of grace has expired and who wishes to be reinstated must reapply as a new member. (c) The years the Individual Professional Member is in the Retired Professional Member category will accumulate toward Life Membership at the regular retired fees rate. Section 4 — (a) ASM shall remit to each Chapter in Good Standing a portion of the fees received from the members of such Chapter. The amount to be remitted to each Chapter during each fiscal year shall be based on the membership of the Chapter on 1 September of that year, and the chapter’s ability to meet the Chapter in Good Standing Criteria. (b) The amount of financial support remitted to the Chapter in Good Standing shall be approved by the Board.
