Meeting Notice, Thursday, Dec. 7, 2017
We have rented the Barker Playhouse for a special performance of:

Isn't It Romantic

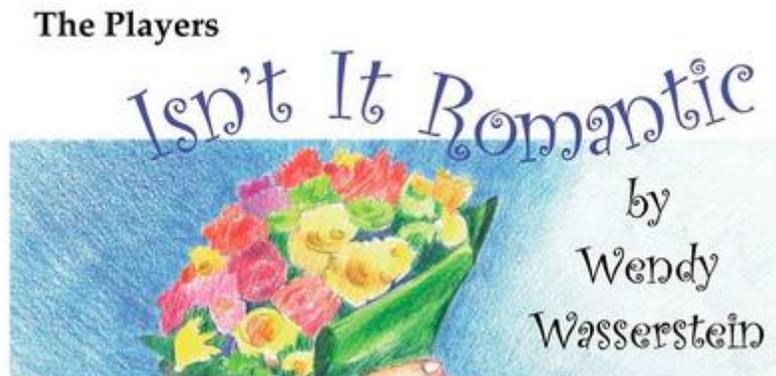

A play by Wendy Wasserstein

EVENT: Founded in 1909 in Providence, RI, The Players at Barker Playhouse is America's oldest continuously running little theatre.

Isn't It Romantic*, Special Performance December 7th!

Directed by: Tom DiMaggio

The Story: The play deals with the post-college careers (and dilemmas) of two former classmates, Janie Blumberg and Harriet Cornwall. Both are struggling to escape from lingering parental domination and to establish their own lives and identities. Told in a fast-moving series of inventive, alternately hilarious and touching revealing scenes, the play explores their parallel stories.

5th Annual ASM Holiday Event at the Barker Playhouse !

As a special holiday spouse/guest/family event, ASM-RI has rented out one half of the 100-person capacity theater for the evening. Join us before the play for conversation, and a light dinner with beverages.

Based on past years' enjoyment, the Chapter has made arrangements to continue with the tradition.

VENUE: Barker Playhouse, 400 Benefit Street, Providence, RI

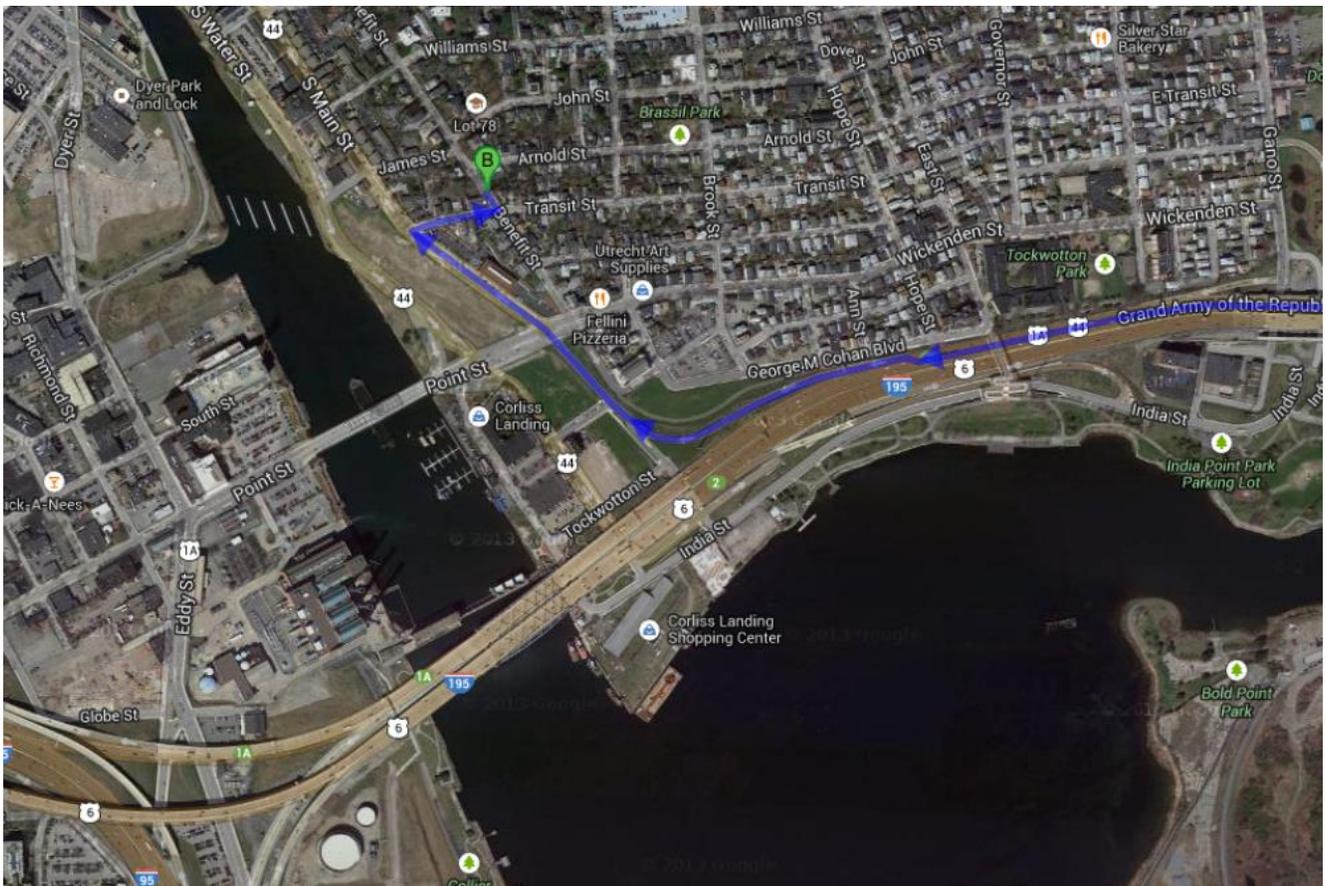

TIME: Doors open at 6:00, with food and beverages at 6:30.
Curtain call is 7:30pm

REFRESHMENTS: An assortment of sandwiches, beverages, and desserts will be provided.

COST: ASM Members $25, Guests $30, Students & ASM Retirees $15
Share the evening with someone special – for each full price admission (member or guest), receive a second admission for $25.
