Dr. Ji Ma
Assistant Professor
Department of Materials Science and Engineering
University of Virginia

Ji Ma is an assistant professor at the department of materials science and engineering at University of Virginia. His research focuses on the physical metallurgy of metal additive manufacturing and tailored materials such as time-dependent and location-dependent properties control. He is currently is the co-founder and president of a medical device startup, Adallo LLC.